OUR ENGLISH LETTER.

[REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF COLONIST.]

LONDON, March 21, 1883.

LADY DIXIE'S HYSTERIA.

It is very painful to have to doubt the story told by a lady; but the feeling of incredulity attaching to the first report of the outrage on Lady Florence Dixie has gathered strength now that the details are known. Lady Florence unfortunately conceived a love for notoriety which, it is to be feared, has developed into mania. She is a clever woman and undoubtedly possessed of nerve, but a certain form of hysteria sometimes is met with in women of this kind. She wrote a book of poems at an early age, and although she is only now in her 27th year she has visited Patagonia, Zululand, etc., and interested herself rather forcibly in the affairs of Cetewayo and those of the land league. She is a sister to the Marquis of Queensbury and to Lady Gertrude Stock, nee Douglass, who recently married a journeyman baker and keeps a shop in the west end; Sir Beaumont Dixie, the husband of lady Florence, is a hunting man.

CHAMBERLAIN AND BOYD.

The action, Chamberlain v. Boyd, arising out of the black-balling by the reform club of the brothers of Mr. Chamberlain, M.P., is settled. The court of appeal has allowed the demurrer which set forth that the alleged libel contained no ground for action. It is perhaps fortunate for everybody concerned that the action will not go trial. It arose from the circumstance attending the candidature of Mr. Walter and Mr. Herbert Chamberlain for the election of the reform club. Those gentlemen were balloted for in the usual manner, and the result of the ballot was that they were not elected. The ordeal is one to which all ordinary candidates have to submit, and through which many fail to succeed in passing. At the rejection of Mr. Chamberlain's brothers an attempt was made to vest the powet of election in the committee, in place of leaving it in the hands of members of the club; but the proposal was not adopted. Whilst, however, it was under discussion, Mr. Lennox Boyd, the defendant, who is a member of the reform club, is reported to have said, "The conduct of the Messrs. Chamberlain was so bad in a club at Melbourne that a round-robin was signed urging the committee to expel them; but as they were only there a short time the committee took no steps in the matter." The Messrs. Chamberlain then brought an action against Mr. Boyd, in which they sought to recover damages to the extent of £5000 for what they alleged to be slander. They will, no doubt, feel sore to think that further litigation is impossible.

KARL MARX,

the founder and director of the socialistic movement on the continent, who died a few days ago, was a power in democratic France; he receives ungrudging praise from papers that differ from one another on most occasions, and the Intransigeant and the Bataille lament in unison over his grave. Yet there is something for French writers to forget in this instance, for Karl Marx was undoubtedly a German; while Prussia returned his hostility with interest. Karl Marx had an unquestionably fine picturesque—admiring disciples might even say Jove-like aspect. Hair is a wonderful adornment. Clipped and shaved Marx would have been an ordinary enough looking Jew. But masses of white hair shadowing his forehead and covering his face, gave to features not in themselves very striking, a certain venerability, if not nobility. His conversation was exceedingly interesting. His erudition was by no means great, but his political knowledge was immense. Since 1848, when he was already a socialist leader, being then about 30 years of age, he had been behind the scenes of European politics, and his stories about measures and men were highly entertaining. The father of Karl Marx was a baptised Jew of Treves, and he married the daughter of an officer in the Prussian army, who derived her descent on the mother's side from a good Scotch family.

WOMEN

are becoming daily more and more a pronounced feature of outer life; a Miss Edith Dove has been appointed to supervise the health of the women of the general post-office; and in sharp contrast, another of the gentler (!) sex—Lady Monck—has started a pack of harriers, and has commenced hunting the Wiltshire country. Here and there women are found who go out for the day with dog, gun and bag, and come home well laden with the results of their skill. We well remember a lady on the verge of 50 who for years was a well known figure at least five meets in every week; she rode unattended, always paid her half-crown, and but for the skirt might have passed for a rubicund, curly-pated, rough country squire. Four of the articles in the Encyclopædia Britannica, vol. xv., are written by women. In time she will educate up, or to be more philologically accurate, breed up to man. Her brain will expand with coming generations, and her determination to regain her normal position in creation.

"We were not taken out of your foot, sir,
For to be trampled on—
But we were taken out of your side, sir—
Your equals and partners to be;
So you need not go for to think, sir,
That you are the top of the tree."

The boundless liberty allowed to women of England and America is at this stage producing "eccentrics," to put it mildly. To be "notorious," famous they would put it, seems to be the sole aim and existence of some of the emancipated, Lady Florence Dixie for example.

CANTERBURY.

But to turn to other matters; Dr. Bradley will be enthroned on the very chair wherein St. Augustine used to sit, and in which the kings of Kent were crowned, and which all archbishops, Becket included, have at one time or another used. It is made of Purbeck marble with a raised cross on the back; and in four pieces, so that it is portable. What memories cling around Canterbury! What names it enshrines! that regal home of the vicars, of the humblest, poorest, least considered, and still uncrowned founder of Christianity's kingdom! At last the in Belgrave Square is to be levelled to the ground. For nearly 30 years it has been untenanted save by the caretakers, who have grown old in the service, and fortunately for themselves ghost-hardened. It is said, and commonly believed, that the house is haunted, and that several who slept in the one dread chamber were found dead in the morning from fright and horror so implanted on the countenance that the living were glad to bury them out of sight. The present owner who has lately come into the property, sensibly pulls down the mansion to rebuild it. This will be an efficacious "notice to quit" to the unearthly tenant.

FASHIONS.

The ungenial weather still keeps spring fashions in abeyance, and fur is more worn at present than at Christmas. Children's modes are in the windows, though, and very pretty they are. Plaids and checks in woolen goods are the principal fancy; girls of two and ten wear the long-established princess shape which seems never likely to go out of favor for children. It has the recommendation of not bearing harassingly upon the loins, which gowns with separate skirts gathered and pleated do. The polonaise with shoulder piece or yoke, and belt around the waist is very suitable for washing materials, and this in nun's-veilings will be very popular as the days warm up. Quite smart little costumes for children's early spring wear are made with a short polonaise of plain material draped at the sides, showing the kilted skirt of the striped material, which should be in two shades and stripes of equal width to be effective. A small cape trimmed with a full ruch accompanies these costumes. Velveteen is much used in outdoor garments for the little ones, but it is always mixed with other materials, such as cashmere, or thin cloth, etc. Girls from 12 to 15 seem to have no particular mode ascribed to them; they are modified examples of the fully-fledged young lady. Every day the tailor grows more in favor; he studies science in his cut, and indicates the peculiar lines of the figures of his model intelligently, which the ordinary dressmaker does not; because she is generally a mere machine. Jackets and coats show a tendency to increased fullness behind. Pretty garments of these kinds are made in light shades of cloth, with trimmings of plush. A pretty coat, suitable for either boy or girl from two to four years of age, is composed of fancy cloth, fastening from the left shoulder, the trimming border from the shoulder and round the edge of the coat being peacock-blue the same style looking equally effective in a pale brown cloth with copper colored velvet. For better dresses for very little girls cashmere is used trimmed with surah, and sometimes marabout feather bands; the latter is too perishable for everyday wear. There is a decided change in millinery shapes. Very little girls wear small hoods like bonnets of velvet, with pleated border over the face, lined with colored silk or satin and full lace border just beyond.

Whilst touching on children's matters, it will not be amiss to mention the useful perambulator covers which are now in such variety and which form also another outlet for female energy in needlework and design—they are often crocheted like an antimacassar or embroidered in the fashionable art needlework. Terra-cotta, Bolton sheeting, brown holland, serge of various colors, satin sheeting, and even Turkey twill can be used with good effect, and we must not forget to mention the Zulu and oatmeal cloths which have been such good friends for so long.

There never was a time in which the coquette had such valuable aid from her bonnet as now. They are literally of every device under the sun. A clever girl may make her own design, and it may may be; she will not look odd in it, and be as absurd, eccentric or artistic as the case she will not be out of the fashion. A very pretty one was imported from Paris a few days ago to adorn the head of a sparkling blonde; though by the way, it was not very seasonable in this "cauld drift, rain and snaw." The shape was open network of cut jet beads threaded on wire, and softened off at the edge by a double ruching of lace. On the side gleamed a clump of chenille dandelions and a single flower and leaf tightened up the bow of black velvet strings. Birds as ornaments on dresses, in bonnets, and on every fancy article, are actually in flocks; but not real birds. Embroidery, pearls, beads, combinations of feathers, have creations of their own which are just as becoming. A ball costume ornamented with doves in pearls was exquisite. Applique too is a craze just now; rich patterns are cut out from tapestried cloths and applied as borders to trains, or as a single ornament on the box-pleat of a double skirt. Nuts as ornaments are having their day also, and are lavishly used in the new designs for satins and light fabrics; this is called "noisette." The soft browns and neutral tints of the various nuts show well on bright colors. As an old lady, who in her long past youth said the other day, "even ugliness has a chance now."

JOHN BULL.

A REMARKABLE FACT.

It is a remarkable fact that W. A. Edgers, of Frankville, who was so far gone with liver and kidney complaint that his life was despaired of, was cured with four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters. At one time he lay a fortnight without an operation of the bowels. (36)

THE ANTI-KOOTENAY AGITATION.

Mr. Sweeny has not yet left town. He is still spending his money lavishly in the saloons in town, gaining converts to his anti-Kootenay railway opinions. We understand that he has now about two hundred followers who will attend any meeting and cheer the speakers on his side and cry down those opposed to him. It is his intention to have a grand mass meeting to-night to repeat the noisy scenes which accompanied the two former meetings. The business men of the city should attend, as they did at the previous meetings, so that by their presence they may protest against these assemblies seeming to represent the voice of the citizens of Victoria. As long as Mr. Sweeny's drafts on his Northern Pacific railway employers are cashed by the Bank of British Columbia this agitation will continue. He declares publicly that his authority to draw is unlimited, and from the amount of money which he has expended in the last few days credence must be given to his statement. The parties who are aiding Sweeny in this movement are known, and at the proper time we shall give their names. Some of Mr. Sweeny's lieutenants are very well known names to our citizens. Others are newcomers, without the least stake in the country. Look out for their posters and bellringer this evening.

According to a Cape Town despatch of Feb. 13, Dr. Jorissen, the Transvaal Attorney-General, was about to leave for England on a diplomatic mission. It was reported that he was instructed to urge upon Lord Derby the withdrawal of the suzerainty.

For some time past a number of pickpockets have been going about the streets of Dublin in the night time and accosting the citizens, stating that they were Marines, and insisting on searching them for arms. During this process the sham Marines generally succeeded in relieving the persons of all their money and valuables.

The Island of Foula, about twenty miles west of Shetland, and containing about three hundred inhabitants, has been isolated by continuous storms from the mainland during the whole of this year until recently, when a boat managed to reach it with provisions. The people were found to be in a terrible state of destitution, and many of them must have been starved to death but for this neighborly succor.

The stringency of the liquor law in England and Wales is exemplified in a recent case at Cardiff, where the stipendiary magistrate held that under the Welsh Sunday Closing Act publicans could not give dinners on Sundays to friends in the town. The Act had the effect of closing the houses against every one except lodgers and bona fide travellers. He fined a publican charged with the offence 10s. A case was granted for the Queen's Bench.

During February upwards of 9,601 tons of fish were delivered at Billingsgate, of which 7,617 tons came by land and 1,984 tons by water. Of this the Fishmonger's Company seized 4½ tons as unfit for human food. With the exception of two hundredweight, all the fish condemned came by land. The fish included cod, haddocks, herrings, lobsters, mussels, oysters, periwinkles, plaice, salmon, shrips, sprats, turbot, whelks, and whiting.

The neighborhood of Kilgetty, Pembrokeshire, is in a state of excitement over the elopement of the Rev. John Higley, a Primitive Methodist minister, and a single man, with the wife of Mr. John Brinn, a local preacher of the same denomination, and an engine driver on the Saundersfoot tramway. Higley lodged with Brinn, and on Wednesday the runaways left for Caermarthen, Mrs. Brinn taking her only child and a sewing-machine with her. She left a letter for her husband, stating that he need not inquire after her, as she would not trouble him again.

In the Dublin Police Court, five sailors of the British barque Fanny were brought up in custody charged with having refused to proceed to sea without reasonable cause. The master stated that his vessel, which was bound for Virginia, U.S., had been lying in Kingstown harbor waiting for a favorable wind, and when he gave orders to proceed to sea the prisoners refused to work the ship, alleging as their reason for doing so that a storm had been predicted to reach England from America on the 10th, and that they would have to meet it. The men, in reply to the Bench, said this was the only reason they had for refusing to proceed to sea. The prisoners were sentenced to two months imprisonment each, but were subsequently discharged on their agreeing to go out in the vessel.

A diplomatist is having an after-dinner talk with the Grand Vizier of the oriental sovereign to whose court he is accredited. "The only fault I have to find with your system of government," he says, laughingly, "is its murderous tendency. Why, not a single one of your Sultans has died in his bed during the last two hundred years!" "You mistake, sir," says the Grand Vizier, with patriotic warmth; "four of them have died in their beds during that period; though I must admit that in each case the royal sleeper was found with the mattress on top of him!"

The rat, says Professor Huxley, has no place in a well-built city house. The mouse is harmless, but the presence of rats means a connection with the rat's place, the sewer. Hence, when he knew that there were rats in the basement of his house, Mr. Huxley had the floor of the room taken up, and found an opening into the sewer where the builder had omitted to close up the opening to a side drain, designed, but abandoned before using. During all the years that the house had been occupied this opening had been in unsuspected existence, and had given open passage to the emanations from the sewer.

In Belfast, Ireland, the other day, Major George Alfred Kirby, of the Salvation Army, entered into the bonds of matrimony with Capt. Margaret Coatsworthy of the same corps. After the civil rite had taken place in the Registrar's office, they proceeded to St. George's Hall, where Major Dowdle repeated the ceremony, the public being admitted at 6d. (12 cents) a head. Two flags wore then waved over the couple, and after singing, prayer, and many volleys of hallelujahs, the presiding Major announced that "Major Kirby and wife having no home, a collection will be taken up for them."

The sand-bag artist is the terror of Chicago at present, and a newspaper of that city presents the following figures to comfort the people:—There are in Chicago at the present time about 275,000 male persons. Of these about 140,000 are of sand bag age. Of this 140,000 sand-bag contingent 70,000 individuals are of a timid nature and do not go out after dark. There remain, therefore, 70,000 adult males liable to be sand-bagged any night. But the newspapers returns show that no more than ten are sand-bagged upon any one night, or seventy in a week. This amounts to 3,500 a year. It will take, therefore, 20 years before every man will get his turn. Any man who cannot take comfort from these figures should move out of the city.

A late invention that promises to push itself into general use is a door lock that has no key—a permutation lock which offers no obstruction to opening the door from the inside, but which can only be opened from the outside by a person who knows the combination. The lock is so arranged as to serve as a door-bell, giving the alarm when the knob is turned by an unpractised hand.

Mrs. Bowers is three feet high. She lives in California, with her husband and four daughters, all of who are ordinary in size. At table she sits in a high chair. But she is a rigid disciplinarian, and the children submit to being whipped by her

Washington is going to put all her wires underground. That is a great town for wires, but those pulled by politicians are generally underground anyway.

The Smithsonian Institute at Washington has a section of the tree 12 inches in diameter which was cut down by minnie balls during the battle of Chancellorsville.

Philadelphia has 4,000 victims of opium and morphine.

A New York chemist makes applesauce out of chemicals.

Cincinnati packed over 500,000 hogs and had an "operatic festival," all in one year.

WHILE Mrs. Langtry was enjoying a sumptuous repast in her private hotel car at Rochester last Friday evening, according to the Democrat and Chronicle of that city, a poor French woman in the depot sitting-room was starving. The same train had brought them both to Rochester, one in a palace car, the other in the smoking car on a poormaster's pass—for her husband had just died and she was a pauper in a strange land. When Mrs. Langtry had finished her dinner she opened the window and offered some cakes and sweetmeats to some boys who were playing about the car. "Ben" Dixon, the car shifter, saw her, approached the car, and after apologizing to the lady, stated the condition of the poor woman in the sitting-room, and suggested that if she had any food to give away he would take it to the hungry woman and child. Mrs. Langtry appeared much interested, and said she would have some food sent to the woman immediately. In a few moments a colored man emerged from the car laden down with cold meats, fruit, etc., which he conveyed to the famished woman. Later the woman and her child visited the car and personally thanked Mrs. Langtry for her kindness. The actress received her kindly, and before she left presented her with $5. Some one else in the coach gave the woman $2, and later "the boys" about the station swelled the purse to $11.

WAGNER'S DEATH has caused an admirer of the great composers to compare the ages at which they died. Franz Schubert lived to be only 31; Bellini attained 38 years; Mozart, 35; Mendelssohn-Bartholdy, 38; Carl Maria von Weber, 31; Schuman, 46; Donizetti, 49; Adam, 52; Mehul, 54; Beethoven, 56; Halevy, 62; Bach, 65; Wagner, 69; Flotow, 70; Meyerbeer, 72; Gluck, 73; Handel, 74; Spohr, 75; Rossini, 76; Haydn, 77; Cherubini, 81; Auber, 87. The average life of the famous composers has been brief, and their labors have borne earlier fruition than has been the rule in other fields of artistic effort.

Why they are popular. The reason that National Pills are so universally popular is because they are certain in their action, mild and painless in their operation, and never leave the bowels constipated. They are sugar-coated, and contain no mineral poison. (35)

A TOMBSTONE JUSTICE.

How he Paralyzed the Distinguished Bar of that City.

[Stockton Herald.]

"When I was practising down at Tombstone," said the lawyer, "a friend of mine had his ear chewed off one evening in a dispute with a prominent citizen who dealt faro. After seeing the doctor he came to me, and under my advice he had the prominent citizen arrested on a charge of mayhem Next day we had the man up for his preliminary examination. My friend was there with his head bandaged, and so were the prominent citizen and his counsel, and the friends of both parties. The general public—and it's a pretty tough general public in Tombstone—crowded the court room. The hour went by, but the justice didn't turn up. The constable went out to look for him, but couldn't find him in any of the saloons. We scouted round for half an hour, but nary a sign of the court turned up. Finally General O'Brien, the leader of the Tombstone bar, stuck his head up through a trap-door in the floor and said in his solemn way:

"Gentlemen, remove your hats. His Honor is here." And he dragged the court up by the collar. He was limber drunk, and had been sleeping it off in the cellar. You never saw such a long adjournment from decency as that ornament of the bench was. He was covered with dirt, and even his hair and beard were chock full of saw dust. There was, I remember, a flattened quid of tobacco on his cheekbone. We had to hold his Honor under each arm as we led him to the nearest barber shop. A bath and a shampoo brought back some life to him, and he was able to walk without help to the court room. Once in the chair behind his high desk he looked all right, and we went on with the case. We had taken the testimony of three witnesses to the row and subsequent chawing of my friend's ear in the Excelsior faro parlors, when General O'Brien and Colonel Stephens, both on the other side, jumped up and objected to one of my questions. It was a law point and we jumped up and quoted authorities for half an hour. It was a pretty hot set-to, and we were all on our feet when we finished, and turned round to the court for a ruling. He was looking straight before him up above us, as if he was sleeping with his eyes open.

"Your Honor," said the general, after a long pause, 'we are waiting for your ruling.'

There was no answer. Then I chipped in with:

"Your Honor, will you be kind enough to give us your ruling?"

"Wash tha?" he said, trying to bring his eyes to bear upon me.

"We want your ruling."

"Court's a'journed," he said, trying to rise.

We all protested, but his only answer was to strike his desk with his fist and cry out again that the court was adjourned.

"Won't you fix the bail of this defendant?' demanded the general.

"Naw, shir," said the court, who had got on his feet by this time, and was frowning heavily. 'Turn him loose. He'd oughter chawed the head off that tenderfoot, that's what he'd oughter done."

"Well, gentlemen, what do you think the court did next? He just deliberately staggered over to the trap-door, lifted it, stepped down the stairs until only his head and shoulders were above the floor, and then pausing to glare at the paralyzed crowd of us, growled out:

"Yeh can all go to——."

"With that he ducked and let the door fall, and I suppose had his sleep out on the dirty floor of the cellar."

The New Oriental Hotel

Plans for this new handsome structure may be seen at Mr. Teague, the architect's office. The main building will have 31 feet front and a depth of 122 feet. Its height will be three stories. On the ground floor there will be ladies' and gentlemen's dining rooms, entrance hall, kitchen, storeroom and the usual offices and requisites for a first class hotel. On the second and third floors there will be spacious and lofty parlors, and suites of rooms for families or single guests. On the east the building will connect with Capt. Pritchard's new two story brick building, 34x75 feet, which will be embraced in the new hotel.

ANOTHER BLOW—SURVEY.—Yesterday morning a brisk blow from the southeast caused the captain of the ship Duke of Argyle lying in Royal Roads, awaiting a crew, to hoist distress signals. A cutter from H. M. S. Mutine was manned and sent to her relief, but being unable to get outside was beached. The steamer Alexander spoke the Duke of Argyle, but by this time the gale had moderated and the captain declined assistance. The surveyors examined and condemned the Tiger and Gettysburg and will examine the two other ships to-day.

FEW remedies became popular so suddenly as Burdock Blood Bitters. The demand has far exceeded the supply. A full supply arrived at Langley & Co.'s, wholesale and retail. 1w

FOR YALE AND WESTMINSTER.—Yesterday afternoon the C. P. N. Co.'s steamer R. P. Rithet left for Yale with a considerable passenger and freight list. This was the first through trip of the season.

ROBBERS.—Sergt. Bloomfield has returned from New Westminster and Yale, with Kelly and Carroll, two men who are charged with the commission of several robberies in this city last winter.

THE steamship Eureka arrived from San Francisco via Portland yesterday morning about five o'clock, and in the evening left for Nanaimo.

FROM NEW WESTMINSTER.—The str. Enterprise arrived yesterday afternoon about 4:30, with passengers and freight.

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT.

FIRST SESSION.

WEDNESDAY, April 18.

Mr. Speaker took the chair at 2 p.m.

Prayers by Rev. Mr. Gamble.

THE KOOTENAY BILL.

Mr. Pooley moved the adoption of the report of the Kootenay railway bill.

Mr. Beaven proposed to strike out sections 9, 10 and 11 and to substitute two sections in lieu thereof in order to make the matter clearer. He thought the house had better go into committee. Section 10 would make section 9 as follows:

"The company shall lay out, construct, acquire, build, equip, maintain, and work a continuous line of railway from the western outlet of Kootenay lake through the Selkirk range of mountains to a point on the Columbia river as near as practicable to the junction of the Kootenay with the Columbia river in British Columbia; and such railway shall be built either upon the broad or narrow gauge, and be known as the Columbia and Kootenay Railway."

Hon. Mr. Davie said the company should carry not only their own ores but that of other people and if Mr. Beaven's alteration was carried out that would not be the case.

Hon. Mr. Smithe said he agreed with Mr. Beaven that it would be as well to go into committee.

Mr. Pooley said all the sections of the bill must be taken together to be rightly understood.

It was moved that clause 9 be struck out.

Mr. Beaven said that section 9 required that a line of steamers should be run by the company to the southern boundary. He saw no use in it.

Mr. Galbraith said this would be in the interest of settlers in that locality. He saw no use in striking out the clause.

Hon. Mr. Smithe—The clause only said they may run such a line, and he thought if the clause stood it should be made more imperative. He failed with the leader of the opposition to see why they wanted to run to the southern boundary, and in the bill it looked as if they were giving us something. He was in favor of the clause being struck out.

Mr. Orr thought that if Mr. Beaven had moved to strike out all the clauses of of the bill he would have done good service.

The speaker intimated that Mr. Orr was not speaking to the motion.

Mr. Orr said if there were 20 lines of steamers the trade would flow by the Northern Pacific railway and that was the natural outlet. Whatever railways were built would not benefit this country a dollar. All the company wanted was to be enabled to place the lands on the market. If the lands were placed in the hands of the free miners the benefit to the province would be much greater. The company only wanted to dispose of their franchise and the route by which they would send their ores in bond would give them only two transhipments. Mr. Orr here gave a number of distances of points on the proposed routes. He contended the difference between the two routes would be 122 miles in favor of the Northern Pacific. The company were compelled to do nothing until 1887 except the survey. The bill was not such a bill as the province should pass, and the United States were setting their face against such monopolies. It would be better to grant money than lands.

Mr. Duck thought it made little difference of the clause was struck out, and he thought the matter might be left to the company though it would be an advantage to the province to have steamers on Kootenay lake.

Mr. Grant said Mr. Orr had had considerable latitude and he would like the same privilege.

The speaker said he must keep to the motion.

Mr. Grant thought that clause 9 should be retained.

Mr. Armstrong thought the matter was immaterial as the clause was no use.

Mr. McLeese thought the clause should be retained and the word "shall" inserted instead of "may," which would oblige them to keep a line of steamers on Kootenay lake. He would ask the member for Kootenay to give some particulars of distances.

Mr. Galbraith said the distance from the Bonanza mine to the proposed railway was about 40 miles.

Hon. Mr. Davie would not strike out the clause, as there was another clause making the company common carriers, and without the clause, it would not affect them in running steamers on Kootenay lake.

Mr. Helgesen moved that the word "may" be struck out of the clause and the word "shall" inserted in the old bill.

Mr. Robson said the amendment would be tantamount to saying the clause should remain.

The speaker then put the question if clause 9 be part of the bill. Carried.

On motion the word "shall" was then substituted for the word "may."

Mr. Beaven's clause was then put to the house.

Mr. Davie thought the language of the clause was vague. He had been told there were three outlets to the lake though he believed there was only one.

Mr. Beaven contended that Kootenay river ran into Kootenay lake, on the map at least. What they wished was to have the railway built from the Western side of the lake to Kootenay river.

Mr. Grant said there was only one outlet to the lake.

It was moved in amendment the word "western" be struck out. Carried.

The clause as amended was then passed.

Mr. Beaven moved that section 11 be struck out and the following substituted: "The company shall acquire, build, equip, maintain, run, and navigate a line of steamers suitable for passenger and freight traffic, and other vessels upon the Columbia river, to and fro, from the point on the Columbia river where the Columbia and Kootenay railway from Kootenay lake terminates, to that point on the west bank thereof where the Canadian Pacific railway shall strike the said river and cross the same near the Eagle Pass; or in the event of the Canadian Pacific railway not crossing the Columbia river to the point where a wagon road or railway from Shuswap lake to the Columbia river terminates thereon.

Mr. Davie asked what "thereon" referred to.

Mr. Beaven said that it referred to the Kootenay river.

The vote on the substitution of Mr. Beaven's clause was then taken and decided in the negative.

Hon. Mr. Davie moved "That section 14 be amended by striking out the words on the 3rd and 4th lines, "system of survey as defined in the Land Amendment Act, 1879," and inserting in lieu thereof the following:—"now existing land laws of the province." Carried.

Hon. Mr. Davie then moved "that section 16 be amended by adding after the word "same," on the 12th line, "but not until the surveys of such land shall have been accepted by the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works and payment made for the land; and all leases, sales, and other alienations of land previous to the issuing of Crown grants shall be subject to the approval in writing of the chief commissioner of lands and works or the assistant commissioner of the district." Carried.

Hon. Mr. Davie moved a verbal alteration in section 17 to the effect that the word "aforesaid" be inserted after Canadian Pacific railway. Carried.

Hon. Mr. Davie moved to strike out certain words in clause 19 so that that the crown grants hereafter issued shall be in accordance with the land laws of the province.

Some of the proposed alterations to the clause were carried, when

Hon. Mr. Davie moved that section 19 be amended by adding at the end thereof the following words: "and shall be in accordance with the form of No. 9 set forth in the schedule to the land act, 1875." Carried.

Hon. Mr. Davie moved that in section 20 the word "provincial" be inserted before taxation. Carried.

Hon. Mr. Davie moved the time the company be exempted from taxation should be made "from the time of the passing of this act." Carried.

Hon. Mr. Davie moved in section 21, on the 6th line the words "their grant along the route of the company should be struck out," and the words "be reserved" inserted. Carried.

Mr. Beaven moved to add the following to section 22:—

And the company shall thereafter, at all reasonable times, so as to meet the requirements of the public, efficiently maintain, work, and run the railway from the Kootenay Lake to the Columbia river, and the line of steamers and other vessels upon the Columbia river, from the terminus of the Columbia and Kootenay railway, to the point where the Canadian Pacific railway shall strike the said river and cross the same; or (in the event of the Canadian Pacific railway not crossing the Columbia river) to the point where a wagon road or railway from Shuswap Lake to the Columbia river terminates thereon; and the government of British Columbia shall take, and the company shall give sufficient security for the efficient maintenance and operation of the said railway and steamers during the ten years next subsequent to the completion thereof by the company and acceptance in writing by the government of British Columbia."

Mr. McLeese said there was no mention of steamers on Kootenay Lake, and the clause should be amended.

Mr. Grant thought the penalties imposed by the act were sufficient.

Mr. Dunsmuir was astonished at the senior member for Victoria. He thought clause 22 was sufficient without any more complications.

Mr. Pooley said the clause proposed by Mr. Beaven limits the company for 10 years, and that of the attorney general was far better.

Mr. Galbraith said if the company ceased to operate the road under clause 22 as it stood, the company were liable to forfeiture of $1,500,000 in plant, but Mr. Beaven's only bound the company for ten years.

Mr. Wilson thought the original clause 22 was far better as to the question of forfeiture.

Mr. Armstrong said if the line did not pay the company it would not pay the government.

The motion that section 22 stand as part of the bill was then carried.

Mr. McLeese thought the section would meet all requirements by adding the three last lines of Mr. Beaven's addition.

Hon. Mr. Davie moved that in addition to publication in the Gazette "one or more daily newspapers of the province" should be added.

Hon. Mr. Smithe thought this was provided for. The company were first obliged to maintain a line of steamers, and then they were told if they did not do this, the act would be void.

Hon. Mr. Davie's amendment was carried.

Hon. Mr. Davie thought the bill should be laid over to allow of the introduction of further amendments.

Hon. Mr. Robson said that forfeiture would be piled on forfeiture until the enterprise would be strangled. The object of the house should be to surround the bill with sufficient safeguards, but not to overload it so as to drive capital away. It might be that the $50,000,000 lead mine would prove to be valueless and the garden of Kootenay a desert, still the company would be required to operate their lines of steamers and railways to the ruin of themselves and without advantage to the country.

Mr. Beaven said he only intended to secure the province against injury.

Mr. Grant agreed with the provincial secretary.

Mr. Orr said the main question had been lost sight of. It was not established for a fact that the Canadian Pacific railway would come through the Selkirk range, and when this company got the franchise in their hands and were asked to send their ores out through Eagle Pass they would ask if we wanted them to perform impossibilities.

Hon. Mr. Robson said an enhanced value had been placed on Kootenay because these capitalists proposed to open it. Suppose the mines proved to be a bubble, it would be impossible to get capitalists to put their money into this enterprise if they were told they would be required to run their steamers and trains even if the thing did not pay.

Hon. Mr. Davie moved that consideration of the clause be postponed.

Mr. Speaker said the motion was out of order.

Mr. Duck asked the leader of the opposition if the Canadian Pacific railway company were required to run their trains for ten years, whether they had forfeited anything or not?

Mr. Beaven did not know.

Hon. Mr. Smithe moved—"In the event of the Kicking Horse and Eagle passes, or either of them, not being adopted as the route of the Canadian Pacific railway, the company shall submit a measure to this legislature, at the next session after the route of the Canadian Pacific railway shall have been officially declared, to enable them to build a railway through Eagle pass, from Shuswap lake to the Columbia river."

Mr. Orr moved that the company shall construct, equip and maintain a line of railway through Eagle pass; otherwise the privileges conveyed by this bill shall cease and determine, in case the Canadian Pacific railway company should build a line through Kicking Horse pass, then this company shall not be obliged to build a railway through Eagle pass.

Mr. Speaker ruled the amendment out of order.

Mr. Orr said he should give two days' notice, and moved the adjournment of the debate. Carried.

House adjourned till two o'clock Thursday.

The Lost Phœbe Fay.

Captain Marlatt, of the wrecked American schooner Phœbe Davis, reports that his vessel was struck by a tremendous sea on Saturday last (day of the great gale), filled with water and the rudder carried away. All cooking utensils were lost, and the ship's company subsisted on hard tack till Tuesday, when the Mississippi took them off. The schooner was then within 20 miles of the beach and drifting rapidly. The steamer lowered a boat and took the people off. They were treated with great kindness, and were landed here yesterday.

Yale Public Meeting.

(Sentinel, April 10.)

A large number of our merchants and business men assembled at the Palace Hotel Tuesday evening for the purpose of devising ways and means for securing a reduction in the present high rates of freight charged between Victoria and this place. Mr. R. Clark was appointed chairman, and Mr. Geo. P. White acted as secretary. The chairman stated the object of the meeting and invited discussion on the subject.

Mr. W. McGirr, being called upon, stated that the present rates charged on freight were exorbitant, and that by unison of action on the part of those who receive freight some advantage could be derived through the means of competition, and that the freight receivers should agree to act together and secure an opposition in carrying trade between Victoria and Yale.

Mr. Powers also stated that he considered the present rates of freight were by far too high, and that he would support any movement which would have a tendency to reduce the price of freight to a fair living rate.

Mr. Velatti stated that, as a heavy shipper and in the interests of the community, he would do all within his power to forward the object of the meeting.

Mr. C. Fisher approved of the remarks already made and said that he was strongly in favor of opposition.

Mr. A. Leamy being called upon, desired to know if a reduction of charges on freight would aid the merchants would it make any material difference to consumers, like himself?

Mr. Velatti replied by quoting the price of flour when there was opposition on the river, and the present high rates.

Mr. H. McDonald spoke strongly in favor of something being done at once to cause a reduction. He claimed that the rates at present charged were twice as much as those between Liverpool and Halifax, and that the rate of wages would not permit of the people paying the exorbitant charges now collected. He considered the charges a huge monopoly.

Mr. Alex. McDonald spoke with enthusiastic approval of the meeting, and strongly objected to the high rates as now charged.

The meeting was also addressed by Messrs. C. Wallace, N. McPhee, P. Clair, Dr. Frickelton and several others, after which the following motions were put to meeting:

Moved by Mr. McGirr, seconded by Dr. Frickelton, that Messrs. Velatti, Clark, Powers, Fisher and McGirr, be appointed a committee to correspond with shippers in the upper country for the purpose of forwarding the object for which the meeting was called.

Carried unanimously.

Moved by Mr. McGirr, seconded by Mr. McPhee, that the committee have power to collect funds to pay necessary expenses.

Moved by Mr. Velatti, seconded by Mr. McGirr, that the thanks of the meeting be tendered to the chairman and secretary for their useful services during the evening. Carried.

Moved by Mr. McGirr, seconded by Mr. F. Crotty, that a report of the proceedings of meeting be inserted in the Inland Sentinel and Victoria papers.

Meeting adjourned.

Kootenay Bill.

(Yale Sentinel, April 12.)

We have been favored with a copy of the above bill as it has been amended in committee of the whole—and most of the objectionable features of the first Act seem to be erased from it. We will briefly enumerate the changes which have been made:—

1st. The original demand of the company for a million and a half of acres of land has been cut down to seven hundred and fifty thousand acres.

2nd. All the rights of free miners to mine for the precious metals are as full as if the lands were crown lands. Placer mines or gold and silver-bearing quartz, can always be searched for and worked by anyone holding a mining license.

3rd. All the lands are to be surveyed by the company, and as fast as this is done persons can buy the lands of the government and get their crown grants at once. The surveys on the Kootenay lake are to be completed next year, and the remaining lands selected by the company are to be designated as fast as possible, everything to be completed in 1887.

4th. After a term of five years all the company's lands are subject to a tax, which at present rates of taxation will yield over $37,000 a year to the revenue of the province.

5th. The lands, instead of being taken in small sections of one mile in width, are to be selected in alternate sections of six miles square, thus leaving each alternate section of such size that it will be of greater value to the government.

6th. All tolls and rates of freight on the railroad, etc., to be the same for large and small shippers, and if they are too high the legislature of British Columbia can cut them down to a reasonable rate.

7th. The company are not entitled to a single dollar from sales and leases of land, until their entire works are finished, and cannot get an acre of land until their full compliance with the terms of the act.

8th. A strip of fifteen miles in length on the Kootenay river, is not to be included in the reserve. This strip, we are informed, includes all the agricultural land in the entire length of the reservation.

With these amendments we think that the bill will meet with approval in the country. The promoters of the company have offered to the government to make a wagon road from Shuswap lake to the Columbia river during the present season, and had offered to the government full and satisfactory bonds, viz., the Bank of British Columbia to complete the work. As a payment for this, they will take $60,000 in land at the government price. A bill for the construction of this road is being prepared for the government.

With these safeguards, we think that the bill will be a benefit to the country, and especially to the Yale district, and we feel thankful that the satisfactory form of the act has been the result of the action of the Yale and Lillooet members. As it was originally brought in no one could have supported it a moment.

The Kootenay bill has been the cause of two public meetings in Victoria, and considerable discussion has taken place. The Colonist thinks the friends of the Kootenay bill have nothing to fear from the meetings so far held.

A Card

TO THE EDITOR: I hear some of Wang Foong's friends are trying to get him a new trial. He was sentenced to fourteen years for manslaughtering my brother. I ask most respectfully that the public will not hear of such a thing as a new trial for this man. His guilt was established to the satisfaction of the judge and jury. There was no doubt in any one's mind that he killed my poor brother. But Wang Foong he has got money and rich friends. If they can find a little hole or flaw in the indictment they will make it big enough for Wang Foong to crawl through it out of prison. His conviction has given the Chinamen a high idea of British law. Every man he now knows if he has an injury he can go to law and have the man who hurt him sent to prison. If Wang Foong gets out again this feeling of security will vanish.

I hope, Mr. Editor, that Wang Foong, the guilty man, will not escape from a punishment he so richly merits.

How a Bereaved Husband Makes His Deceased Wife a Profitable Investment

A French chemist, having condensed by chemical process the body of his wife into the space of an ordinary seal, has polished her up, and wears her in a ring on his little finger. He bets the jewelers that they can't tell what the seal is made of in three guesses, and when he pockets the money, he bursts into tears, and says: "It is my dear wife. I keep her on my finger to keep alive pleasant remembrances." Then the jewelers feel as sorry as the bereaved husband, if not more so.

IF THE NIHILISTS ever allow Alexander to ascend the throne of the Czars he will carry in his hand a sceptre that would make a pretty ornament for anybody's parlor. True, it is not a very useful affair, and would be worthless to poke the fire or beat carpets, but it is well worth having, nevertheless. The bauble is worth 32,000,000 roubles, and was made for Paul I., being tipped with the famous Orloff diamond, which is alone valued at 8,000,000 roubles.
